USPA NEWS - Many people view human rights as a set of moral principles that apply to everyone. Human rights are standards that allow all people to live with dignity, freedom, equality, justice, and peace. Every person has these rights simply because they are human beings. In 2017, there were 30.6 million new displacements associated with conflict and disasters across 143 countries and territories. Approximately 80000 people displaced every Day. 39% new internal displacement were triggered by Conflicts & 61% by disasters. Syria, the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and Iraq accounted for more than half of the figure. There are 22.5 million refugees around the world today, and half of them some 11 million are women and girls.
It was in January 2019, when I had my first telecom with the Person who has only one Passion in life & that is to serve the Humanity without any discrimination in colour, caste or religion. The Person who always discuss the issues related to Human Rights & Humanitarian needs in War Zones or Areas affected by Conflicts. We never had a discussion on weather in Poland or in Pakistan, cultural or political activities, he always starts with what to do next,

Sir.Rafal Marcin Wasik the Secretary General of the International Human Rights Commission the person with the Vision & Courage to bring Peace & Prosperity in the World especially for those who are currently affected & displaced due to the war or conflicts.
